FOUR PERSONS DEAD IN FLORIDA TORNADO AND 23 ARE INJURED

FAMILY WATCHES RAZING OF HOME

Cuban City's Harbor Is Hit by Storm and Damage Is Done

(Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., April 6.—Four persons were dead here today, 23 others were nursing their injuries in Miami hospitals, after the tornado which swooped erratically from the everglades yesterday and did $150,000 property damage before it vanished into the Atlantic.

The bulk of the damage was done at White Belt dairy, six miles west of Miami, where an aged woman, Mrs. Natilda Schultz, 70, was killed, several persons injured and six buildings demolished. Before it rose again to strike Westwood Inn, a roadhouse, near Little Water. Three were killed there, John Simpson, 8, and F. E. Sullivan, and Mrs. John T. Simpson. Others were injured.

After crashing through the buildings at the dairy, the giant cone played about for a moment as if loath to leave. Four small dwellings, a large garage and the mess hall dairy were in ruins before it swept on.

A mile and half further on it pounced upon Elizabeth Parks. Ten houses were splintered there and the cloud changed its direction from northeastward to eastward. It bounded along irregularly, now swooping downward to snap trees from their roots, life a house or barn from their foundation, toy with them for a moment, then deposit them probably a quarter of a mile away.

On one of these rebounds, a family fled from their home to a nearby field, from where they witnessed the destruction of their residence. Several homes were demolished in the fashionable Biscayne Park district, before the tornado vanished into the air and headed seaward.

HAVANA, April 6.—Two warehouses were blown down and several business houses suffered in the hurricane which struck Antilla, on the island, yesterday afternoon.

A telegram received from American Consul Dickinson, at Antilla, said that several American ships in the harbor there escaped damaged, but the Cuban gunboat, Yara, received injuries. No lives were lost.

Mr. Davis suffered only a broken jaw and several cuts. He has been removed to his home and is doing as well as could be expected.

Mr. Davis is with the Drennan Motor car company and formerly resided here.

CROWDS THROUGH THE METHODIST CHURCH

Three Programs Are Enjoyed During the Sabbath Day

The Central Methodist church was filled to capacity at the three services Sunday. The auditorium, the Sunday school room, and the vestibules of the church were thronged to capacity morning, afternoon and night.

Dr. Patterson preached at the morning hour on a passage in Matthew's gospel concerning the Christ, "Who is He?" On every side it was said to be one of the most powerful sermons from the standpoint of clear logic and spiritual power ever heard in the city. Dr. Patterson said three questions must be answered if you would understand who a person is. What he himself thought of himself, in the terms of philosophy the content of his consciousness. In a graphic way the stupendous claims set forth by Jesus were stated. The next question was "What do his contemporaries think about him?" The testimony of his enemies and friends were set forth in a very clear and dramatic manner. Dr. Patterson said that no man, while Jesus lived ever attempted to account for him on the basis of the mere plane of humanity. The last great argument concerning this man, who stirred the multitudes everywhere he went, in answer to the question who is He, was his impact upon history. The preacher said the only way to interpret history is in the light of "His story." A wonderful illustration of a dream of a preacher that Christ had not come was recited in a very graphic manner, and the climax of the preachers' message was reached in the highest spiritual and ethical ideals, and the glories of modern civilization all to the matchless character and influence of Jesus Christ.

At the evening service, Dr. Patterson preached on the results of sin. The great audience was held spellbound by the argument and illustrations developed from a passage in the book of James, "Sin when it is full grown, bringeth forth death."

At both services Mr. Branscomb rendered solos and led the congregation in the soul stirring hymns. A large children's and young peoples chorus is in attendance at each service. About fifty have applied for church membership.

STORES BURNED IN ATHENS, TENNESSEE

Believed All Guests In Foree Hotel Were Able to Escape

(Associated Press)

ATHENS, Tenn., April 6.—Fire, which originated shortly after midnight in the Foree hotel here, practically destroyed an entire business block before the fire department got the flames under control.

The Foree hotel, Jones drug company, Julian drug company and the office of the Cumberland telephone company are a total loss. The walls of the hotel caved in at about one o'clock this morning.

It is believed that all guests in the hotel escaped, despite a number of close calls.

The fire had gained considerable headway before it was discovered, and the firemen were at a great disadvantage.

Aid from Sweetwater was asked and the fire department from that city responded. The damage is estimated at $250,000.

The Foree hotel was a three story structure.

LEGION DRIVE IS TO BE CONTINUED THROUGH THIS WEEK

Officials Are Confident Outcome Will Be Successful

COUNTY SECTIONS NOT REPORTED

County Quota Must Be Reached By End of Week's Work

Legion leaders announced today that the American Legion Endowment Fund drive will be continued through the present week owing to the failure of the many sections of the county to get their reports in an scheduled time. The drive over the county was to have been started on April 1st and to have lasted through April 6th, today.

Reports made this morning showed that only one section of the county had been working toward the $1,500 quota that has been set as a goal by the state officials. Alabama's quota has been placed at $50,000. The cities of Albany and Decatur had previously reported $3,920.00 through Saturday night. A total of $335.00 was realized today.

Officials today declared that they had little doubt but that the quota would be raised by Saturday night of this week after the entire county had been thoroughly worked. They expressed the belief that the great number of meetings in the cities had had something to do with the failure of the response of the people during the first week of the drive. Legionnaires again spoke of the splendid work of the legion in this drive alone and called attention to the fact that the Legion was not asking the people to contribute to something that they did not believe in themselves. The local Legion post started the subscription list with $50.00 and the bulk of the earlier subscriptions were given in by legionnaires and ex-service men.

The following is a list of contributors to the fund since Saturday afternoon:

Previously subscribed	$302.00
Coca Cola Co.	10.00
L. R. Nash	5.00
F. D. Peebles	3.00
C. R. Kilgore	2.00
Nebrig Furniture Co.	2.00

LILLIAN GISH & CHARLES H. DUELL, JR.

Charles H. Duell, Jr.'s suit for a permanent injunction to restrain Lillian Gish, film star, from breaking her seven-year contract with him came to an unexpected end in New York Federal Court when Judge Mack held the film producer in $10,000 bail for alleged perjury and directed the District Attorney to begin procedure to bring about an indictment. The court held that Miss Gish's contract had been substantially breached by Duell and said that the actress's confidence had been overreached and taken advantage of by the plaintiff. Judge Mack called Duell's affidavits "downright perjury."

Carl M. Rodgers Put In Hospital Under a Police Guard

Pistol Battle Occurs On Downtown Memphis Street

(Associated Press)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 6.—T. N. Knox, a policeman is dead, and Carl M. Rodgers, 27, is at a hospital today under police guard and believed to be dying as a result of a spectacular pistol fight on a downtown street here last night, which followed when Knox attempted to rescue Rodgers' divorced wife, Dorothy Reese, 21, and her escort whom Rodgers was said to have been holding captive in an automobile.

The young woman also was wounded, but not seriously, and Knoch Gregg, 23, who was with her in an automobile narrowly escaped death, one of the bullets fired in an exchange of shots, between Rodgers and the policeman passing through his coat, but missing his flesh.

Knox attracted by the screams of the woman, halted the car in which Rodgers was holding the woman, and Gregg under cover of a pistol, but before he could grasp Rodgers, the latter is said to have opened fire.

An exchange of shots, resulting in the death of the policeman and the probable fatal wounding of Rodgers followed.

Gregg told the police that Rodgers, pistol drawn, boarded the automobile in which he was riding with Miss Reese another couple, on Main street, near Union avenue, crowded at the time with traffic forced the two other people to alight, and directed the young woman to drive toward a suburb.

In compliance with his command, she turned the car off the crowded thoroughfare when she sighted the policeman and cried for help.

Rodgers is said to have recently sought without success, to effect a reconciliation with his former wife, who obtained a divorce from him about two years ago.

Gregg said he apparently had been drinking.

ECZEMA

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S.S.S. are really amazing!

MANY people imagine that eczema or tetter needs only some external application on the skin in order to get relief. This is because the attention of the sufferer is so violently directed to the intense burning and itching which accompanies this disease. Try as they may—permanent relief will never be theirs until the disease laden blood is thoroughly cleansed.

We know there is one thing that stops eczema and that is more red-blooded cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red-blooded cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it. Skin eruptions, eczema, with all its fiery, skin digging torture, and its soul-tearing, unrelenting itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, they all pack up and go, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting giants of Nature! S.S.S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1826.

S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body strengtheners known to us mortals! When you put these facts together, then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it cures eczema, clears the skin, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, and gives you that more up and going appearance.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Crowds Throng The Methodist Church

under the auspices of the Music Study Club directed by Mrs. H. O. Troup was rendered by the leading singers of the Twin Cities. The high order of the program and the excellent way it was executed speaks well of the musical talent of our city. The fine reception and the great audience shows evidence that our people appreciate the best in music. Mrs. Troup and members of the chorus were being congratulated on every side.

Beginning today, Dr. Patterson spoke in Moye's Barber shop at 9:30 at the church at 10 o'clock, continuing his studies on the book of Ephesians, at 12 o'clock at the shops and at 7:30 will preach at the church.

Mrs. Lindsey conducted the Bible hour at the "Y" for the business and employed women at 12 o'clock when lunches were served free to all who attended. Mrs. Lindsey was the special guest of the Woman's Missionary Society at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the church.

Perhaps greater interest has never been manifested in a religious meeting in the history of the church than is being shown here at present.

"PATTERSON'S PITHY POINTS"
"The impact of Jesus has changed the very face of the earth."

"Jesus Christ is the moral and spiritual miracle of the ages."

"In all his moral completeness,

Jesus Christ is most sympathetic toward the sinner."

"No hypocrite or man or mythical character could ever accomplish the stupendous things that have been wrought in the name of Jesus Christ."

"Nobody while He lived ever tried to account for Jesus on the plane of mere humanity."

"No jury would set aside the testimony of eye-witnesses for the subjective testimony of men who lived 1500 years later."

"I have absolutely no patience with the man who says every man is a hypocrite."

"Walpole's theory that every man has his price, proves nothing except that Walpole had his price."

"All that you and I know about modern civilization we owe to the Bible."

"If there is no Christ, there is no Bible."

"It is the Church that has done away with the duel, slavery, liquor, etc."

"A Christless world is a world without pity."

"Sin will grow. It may begin small but it will not stay small."

"Kill the goslings of sin while they are soft and downy. After awhile they will become great hissing ganders."

"Sin, like Johnson grass, grows from the root; dig the root of sin entirely out."

"Vast train loads of freight could not shake down the solid stone pier beneath the bridge but a tiny sycamore seed, growing in the heart of the pier, wrecked the bridge. So is sin."

"Your sin and worldiness may seem as sweet and harmless as a baby but one day it will become a giant wild beast that will bear you to your doom."

"Unless you destroy sin, sin will destroy you."

SPORTS

Wee Eddie Lewis Making Good With Vols; Former Fly Chaser Improves With Age

Little Eddie Lewis who used to do quite a bit of gambling about the old Y lot where the Cooper-Wells folks now manufacturing plain and fancy hose, in a uniform of the Twins, is now going great guns with the Nashville Volunteers. Eddie has been minding around from pillar to post for the past few years and benefiting by experience.

When in the employ of the local club Lewis was one of the most popular members of the entire league. There wasn't a town in the valley that wasn't pleased with the antics of the diminutive right gardner. To give an idea of the worth of the youngster, even at that tender age, local fans remember the battle between Lewis and Big Jawn Cochran the heaviest clouter in the league. They also remember that Lewis was retained and Jawn went in search of a lowly berth with the Russellville clan that used to occupy one day playing baseball and the rest of the week operating the cellar.

In the Sunday game at the Tennessee Capitol Lewis cracked out a single and an infield scratch in the four times he faced the St. Louis hurling talent for a neat 500 percentage for the afternoon's labor. At one time he enjoyed a chase with the famous George Sisler who was intent upon catching him napping at the first station. Finally a throw escaped Sisler and Lewis got his sack after displaying a good bit of base running talent.

Lewis is being played at center field by Manager Jimmy Hamilton and although his competition is going great guns it seems that with the aid of the pen of Blinky Horn that the little outer gardner will win his spurs in the center garden.

Many local fans are looking forward to Eddie's record for the year with a great deal of interest. He was one of the best liked men on the Twin City team when the old Alabama-Tennessee league was in full bloom and while his smile was his greatest asset, still he had a great deal of talent as a ball tosser.

SINNERS IN HEAVEN

"Don't make it harder. If you suppose I should have wanted you to marry me from duty? out of loyalty? He paused, regarding her thoughtfully for a moment. 'There's one thing, Bab—'

"Yes!"
"When you tell your mother or anybody of things—being over between us, don't mention your marriage! They won't understand, and it will be rough for you."

She threw back her head, with something of Alan's old arrogance, and drew away.

"I know you mean that kindly, Hugh; but it's impossible! It would seem as if I were ashamed. It would be implying that our convictions were wrong."

"People are not overcharitable about here, as you know," he urged. "You may both have acted according to your convictions, and they may have been right; but all the same it was—unorthodox, and— They will simply throw mud at you and—especially—him! Bab," he came back to her, speaking with unusual insistence, "I can't bear to think of you facing that! For my sake, as well as your own—and his, don't tell them."

She remained silent. The truth of his words, as applied to Alan, struck her forcibly. The contemplation of his name suffering calamity had already, that morning, proved unbearable.

"It would be an awful trouble to your mother and my old people," he added, with his usual thoughtfulness. "They will be upset, as it is. And—they couldn't understand."

She suddenly turned and caught his shoulders.

"Hugh! do you?" she asked earnestly. "Ah! you must! I can't lose—your faith, too!"

Then he acted in a manner that astonished them both. Passion and a sense of the dramatic had ever been far from his nature. Involuntarily, however, his fingers closed around her wrists. Raising her hands, he pressed his lips upon them.

"Heaven knows what was right or wrong," he declared hurriedly. "But—oh, my dear! God help you!"

The door slammed, and he was gone from her life—this man who had been friend and brother, playmate or lover, all her youth.

She stood gazing drearily through the window at the desolate tennis court, where they had played so often together, and an extra wave of lonely bitterness swept into her heart. . . . She saw Hugh, with bent head, cross the grass to the garden gate. . . . Then she sank into a chair before the fire, crushed by an overpowering sense of physical weakness.

Anything was better than exposing Alan's name to the fate awaiting it if the truth oozed out. She caught at this straw, anxious to end the ordeal.

"If you like to think so. He certainly never—asked me to care for him. But I couldn't help it," she repeated.

Thus it was whispered from one bosom friend to another throughout Darbury that, during her sojourn upon the island, Barbara became the victim of an unrequited passion. This added spice to the mystery, while whetting curiosity. Did her companion never guess? Could any man, in such circumstances, be so blind—or so platonically?

Curious glances followed her; voices were lowered when she appeared; a constraint became obvious in her presence. . . . Well aware of it all, she threw it off with a shrug, scorn adding to the misery of her heart as she dragged through the days. Occasionally her mother forced the subject open again.

"If Hugh ever wishes to renew the engagement," she said once, "I insist upon your doing so."

"I couldn't possibly, mother!"

"Why not? The other man is dead. You can't ruin your life over an infatuation of that sort. . . . The Rochdales are such old friends," she moaned, another time. "You don't consider how I miss them—how this all affects me!"

"But you can continue your friendship. Why not?" asked the girl, having grown unaccustomed to Darbury habits. This, however, was contrary to all custom; and a certain estrangement between the two families began, as a matter of course.

Barbara tramped the common in all weathers, consumed with a restlessness that would not let her sleep, unable to find peace of mind in any occupation. Coming back from one of these tramps two days before Christmas, she noticed, in the gathering dusk of the short afternoon, a woman's figure standing near the lake, a small child in her arms. With a casual glance, the girl was entering the cottage gate, when she heard her name uttered low, like a faint exclamation. She turned quickly, peering with puzzled brow through the gloom; then recognition dawned in her face.

"Jenny? Jenny Grant!" She remembered she had not seen the girl since her return. "What are you doing, Jenny? Home for Christmas?" she asked kindly, presuming her to be now in service somewhere. There was no reply; and, aware of the shyness of such village maidens, she continued: "Where are you working now?"

"I—I ain't got no work, Miss Barbara."

The voice trembled on a sob. Barbara glanced at her quickly again, and realized the child's presence. A dim memory of one among the many choice morsels recently recounted for her own benefit returned to her mind. . . . "Oh, Jenny!" she cried involuntarily; then stopped, as the girl, hiding her face on the sleeping child, burst into a passion of tears. Taking her arm, she led her to a seat placed near and Mrs. Stockley were deeply upset, the latter exceedingly wroth; but the two most affected kept their own counsel.

The only ray of comfort to Barbara in her wretchedness lay in her aunt's absence. The relations between her mother and herself were of the coldest. Mrs. Stockley never forgot her position as a beacon, nor her Honorable Grandmother's gracious act in establishing her own identity with the county. This marriage between her daughter and Darbury's future squire had been her dearest ambition. Now, for no tangible reason, this ambition—revived with the girl's return—was hurled to the ground. Not easily could Mrs. Stockley view the dashing of her hopes. The scene between them had

12 Years Ago From The Daily of TODAY

April 6th falling on Sunday there was no issue of the Daily of that date.

A DAILY PRAYER—Give us, we pray Thee enough faith for greater vision, and for more courage to look our duty squarely in the face.

THE BRIDGE—GO TO THE POLLS AND BUILD IT

If you ever cast a ballot, cast it Tuesday. Don't hang back and believe the issues will pass without your aid.

What is the use of worrying? Most things we worry about are the things that never happen.

The worst failing of human beings is putting off until tomorrow. Just keep this in mind; there will be no vote taken on the bond issue on Wednesday, the vote is to be cast on Tuesday, see that you are in your voting precinct.

Do you realize that whether you are for or against the bond issue that it is your duty as a citizen to vote? It is very true that we are not in sympathy with your vote if you are against the proposal, but that doesn't lessen the value of the vote to yourself and your cities and your country.

Let's not have any half way measure on the proposal. Let us all get out and vote, let the majority rule. When the votes have been counted let us all be certain that a ballot has been cast one way or the other. Whatever way the battle of ballots swings, let it not be said that the minority won. It shall be the will of the people all one way or the other.

This is your one big chance to let the folks on the outside peep in and see that we are working as a body. Make Tuesday's election the biggest vote that has ever been taken in the history of the cities. Whether you think you will win or whether you think you will lose, go to the polls somewhere in the Twin Cities and cast a ballot. The vote is going to stand as a record to outsiders that we are interested in the affairs of our communities, if we win or lose.

EDITOR NORWOOD SEES THE VALUE OF THE MORGAN KIWANIS EFFORT

Editor Norwood of the Cullman Tribune recently paid a compliment to the Morgan Kiwanis club that some time ago went to that city on a mission of friendship and a spirit of get-together for the welfare of north Alabama. It might be said that the meeting in Cullman was one of the most enjoyable that the Kiwanis have held in many months and there was much profit made through the excellent addresses of the speakers on that occasion who expressed a sincere friendship for their neighboring cities up the valley who were trying so earnestly to build a bridge.

The Cullman editor has this to say of the Woodland Mills meeting of the local club:

"The Morgan County Kiwanis club of Albany-Decatur is reported to have held a profitable and instructive get-together Community meet at Woodland Mills last Friday evening. The Kiwanians were heartily received by the citizens of that community and the business men of Albany-Decatur were delighted with having the privilege of grasping the hands of so many of the fellow citizens of their county, and knowing them better. What the business men of the state need to do is to get in closer touch with the farmers and their families and let them know that they are real friends, or ought at least be for the prosperity of the people tilling the soil means your success. With better acquaintance and better understanding of each other down to minute details of farm operations as well as expenses of conducting every line of business would soon ripen the friendship of the farmer and the business man until closer co-operation would be the inevitable result, the final consequent of laying aside all of the old mail catalogues and coming or sending to the home stores for merchandise, for in the home store you see and examine the goods before buying and have the satisfaction of knowing that the home merchant will not knowingly misrepresent what he sells you, for he considers that your future business is worth more than a few extra pennies he might make on something that you did not know whether it was what he claimed it to be."

Editor Norwood has opened a field in the matter of buying away from home that might consume hours upon hours of thought and ream upon ream of white paper, but there is one thing that he has failed to say and that is that the matter of buying away from home is not confined to the agriculturist that lives out in the country and has a chance to get to the stores in the towns and cities but once a week, and then probably over some very bad and almost impassable roads. This all absorbing and undesirable subject might be aimed more accurately at the man or woman in town who has all the advantages offered of seeing the goods and having the goods guaranteed to them by the home merchant and then goes home, pulls the catalogue off the shelf, invests two cents with Uncle Sam and hopes he or she gets what the mail-order house has pictured. It is deplorable that the home merchant must suffer from the mail order habit when it is the home merchant who does every little favor that is asked of him, contributes to your schools and your charities and your roads, greets you with a smile whether he likes you or not and makes you feel that you are the best fellow in the world and sells you the things that you want with a guarantee behind it. What more could you ask?

SOLICITOR ALMON GETS ANOTHER SLAP ON THE BACK

Some weeks ago Editor Pierce of Huntsville took occasion to mention the splendid work of Solicitor B. C. Almon who had at that time been at work in Madison county. At this time a Limestone Editor, R. M. Rawls of the Alabama Courier, compliments Mr. Almon upon his work in office. Mr. Rawls has this to say of the solicitor's work:

"The Courier calls attention to its readers of the report of the grand jury in this issue. It is fine to have a solicitor who is ready and willing to put the jury to work and get through with the business before it and save to the county a large amount of unnecessary expense in holding the same for a week or ten days to ferret out little petty offenses that can be as easily tried by the inferior court if sufficient evidence is furnished to base a warrant on. There are many people who seek to hide behind the grand jury to vent their personal spleen, but Honorable D. C. Almon, the ablest solicitor in the state does not intend for the people to pay for such nonsense. He gets a grasp of things that need the attention of the jury and goes to it and when the work is done lets the patrons return to their respective homes and save a lot of unnecessary expense to the taxpayers."

Such work by our Solicitor is indeed commendable.

A PARTING SHOT ON AN OLD BUT IMPORTANT SUBJECT

For many months now the business men of your cities and your daily newspaper have, in all probability been a bit tedious for you on the subject of a bridge. Everywhere you have turned and met in conversation with your friends the subject of a bridge and the present proposal, as offered by the state highway department, has been a part of the conversation. When you have reached home in the evenings after a day of constructive labor or have come to the end of the home duties for the day and settled back in your favorite chair to read of the happenings of the day one of the most outstanding headlines in the home newspaper has been on the subject of the bridge. Consequently you have become a little fatigued with the constant pounding on the subject of bridging the Tennessee.

There has been a reason for the untiring work on the part of the bridge leaders. They have been of the belief for years that the building of a bridge here will mean more than any other one thing that might be brought to these communities. They have worked from time to time upon other proposals that have been made, but never before has there been any such effort put forth by men of your cities than has been placed upon the issue that comes to your attention on Tuesday. They believe that the proposal of the state highway department is the most advantageous that has ever been offered to the cities. They believe that the cities are being asked to put up less money on this proposal than has been found necessary in other propositions. They have a right to believe that the state department will begin work almost as soon as the citizens have declared themselves as being favorable for the issuance of the $100,000 in bonds. That is why there has been such a concerted effort on the part of these leaders in the weeks that have preceded this campaign.

Now you ask yourself why are they doing this work? What reason have they for wanting this project completed? Why should they continue to hammer away unless there was something in it for them? The answer can be made in a very few words. These men are getting something out of the placing of the bridge across the Tennessee River. They are getting the same thing that you are obtaining. There is no string to be pulled anywhere as we see it. The proposal is four square and a proposal through which the entire people will benefit, with the growth being equally distributed and the new wealth going to the entire section rather than to any individual.

The men who have been working so earnestly for the passage of the bond issues have looked into the future a bit. They can see the new trading area that is being opened to the north of us, they can see the increased tourist trade that is to come from both the north and the south. They can see the tremendous influence that a bridge must have upon the final building of a Birmingham to Muscle Shoals highway and the weakest link in the Bee Line highway at last made to be the strongest. Looking at the present, you cannot fail to realize that the building of the bridge will mean the expenditure of a great deal of money within our cities from the very start. It means another pay roll for the cities and a payroll, whether it be handed to five men or a thousand men, means a value to the communities that is felt. So the little money that the cities place for the construction of the bridge will be returned immediately through this one channel.

We have been over this subject time and time again in an effort to lay the proposal before you that you might see for yourself what the completion will mean. We have not presented the other side of the argument for we have felt that the bridge could have nothing but benefits to offer. We have not found any opposition to its though we have searched everywhere and found nothing for any claim against the proposal to be placed upon. Numerous arguments have been offered against the bridge and not one of them has stood when put to the test of fact.

And so we lay the plan before you for the last time. It is yours to vote for or against. The proposal belongs to no individual, no corporation, nor any set of men, it belongs to the whole people and it is the will of the people that will be respected. Go to the polls on Tuesday and cast your ballot. Vote for a proposal that means the opening up of an entirely new agricultural territory, the strengthening of our claim for growth and progress, the completion of a roadway from Nashville to Birmingham, a desirable route for tourists coming from the north and coming from the south, the beginning of a new era in the encouragement of trade from the north, the removal of an inadequate ferry system. A proposal that means a benefit to the entire Valley section. Go to the polls and vote on Tuesday, help build the bridge.

FARM OPERATIONS WELL ADVANCED, EARLY CORN BEING PLANTED

Heavy rains visited this section Saturday morning, continuing practically the entire day, following many pretty days in which time farmers were able to do much of the preparation for the crop of the year. It is generally conceded that planters are fully three weeks ahead of last season in preparation and planting, and there is every evidence that there has been no time lost when it was possible at all to be in the fields.

There is considerable upland corn already planted, and up to a stand. More attention is being paid to food and hay crops than last season, and if reasonable there will be a large amount of food and feed crops on the right side of the ledger this season.

PRE-EASTER EVANGELICAL SERVICES BEGUN SUNDAY AT FIRST METHODIST

A week of evangelical services was begun at the First Methodist church last Sunday morning, being conducted by Rev. Roy Hewlett, who will do the preaching throughout the meeting. The membership have been looking forward to this service for the past several weeks, and prayer services have been held at various places over the town for the past three weeks. The pastor, Rev. R. W. Anderson is very anxious that the entire membership of the church take advantage of this opportunity, and make these services what they should be, real evangelistic services. All are invited to take part and a genuine welcome is extended by the pastor and the membership.

NEGOTIATIONS UNDERWAY FOR BANK LOCATION

It is understood that negotiations are proceeding for the transfer of the business lot situated on the southwest corner of Bee Line highway and Main street for a bank location. This lot is one of the finest locations in the city for business property, and it is quite probable that a fine bank building will be erected there at sometime during the year. Just a few years ago this property was considered "out in the country," while today, it is right in the heart of the business section of town.

MODERN HOTEL BADLY NEEDED HERE; STEPS BEING TAKEN TO GET ONE

For sometime there has been a quite agitation for a modern hotel for this building is here, and steps are being taken to interest the citizens here in such manner that a building will be a certainty. The town has lost business in the hotel line for a long time, owing to the fact that no modern hotel building was available. Business men and others have taken the matter under advisement and plans are being laid which will in all probability and a good hotel building here before the summer wanes.

CEMETERY COMMITTEE MEETS TAKES DEFINITE STEPS FOR BEAUTIFYING CITY CEMETERY

The committee appointed a few days since to take definite steps toward beautifying and caring for the city cemetery, met Friday afternoon and one of the first things done toward the work in hand was the passing of a resolution which was agreed to unanimously, that there should be a steel fence erected around the cemetery.

The town was laid off in zones, and fourteen young women of the town appointed to solicit funds with which to place it there.

When the fence is in place, the city has agreed to keep a cemetery caretaker there two to three days in very week. These two features alone guarantee that this much neglected spot will be cared for and beautified in a manner commensurate with the importance of it.

Other steps will be taken once the enclosure is complete to beautify the spot. There is a spontaneous co-operation upon the part of all the people toward the end sought, which is highly gratifying to those having in hand the oversight of the matter.

BAPTIST LADIES HOLD MARKET SATURDAY

The ladies of the Hartselle First Baptist church held a market last Saturday at the store of Messrs. Poole and Sherrill, serving hot coffee and sandwiches, cakes, pies, etc. The funds so derived go toward the church debt. These markets are held at stated intervals, and in this manner quite a large sum has been collected to apply on this matter.

FOREIGN DOMINATION OF DYE FIELD ENDED

American Chemists To Produce Fast Colors For Cotton Users

(Associated Press)
BALTIMORE, April 6.—America's millions of cotton users have definitely been freed from foreign domination of fadeless dyes, through the discoveries of chemists employed in the color trade laboratories of the United States department of agriculture, at Washington, it is asserted in a report by R. Norris Shreve, of New York City, chairman of the division of dye chemistry of the American Chemical Society, made public at the opening of the Society's 69th meeting here today.

Fadeless vat dyes, the report declares, are now being produced in the United States at prices below their cost in Germany.

Savings aggregating millions of dollars to American cotton manufacturers have resulted from the developments of cheaper intermediates for dye manufacture.

"The American manufacturers of vat dyes," says the report, "now have, at their disposal, cheap and pure products with which to build up the complex molecules, characteristic of the colors, which gives the brightest shades and the most permanent colors yet made."

AMUSEMENT

Most of us are accustomed to seeing picture routine. We go to the theatre to see stars we know, and we are attracted by the pictures we see on the bill.

But when ABRAHAM LINCOLN presented at the Prince of Wales Theatre and Friday you are going to have all of your usual standard set. And you are going to see a greatest motion picture that you ever witnessed. I will absolute without reservation guarantee it.

You will see in the role of a man by the name of GEORGE BILLINGS. You never heard of him before this picture; neither did he is not an actor—he lives it, the part of Lincoln—he lives it, really, in every movement and every expression, in joy and sorrow. I haven't the space to quote them, but I will make statement—that I am willing to bet that no actor in all the history of the screen has won the praise has been given this "unknown."

Another as brilliant a piece of work as I have ever seen is that of Clifford as "Anne Rutledge", a wonderful love story that will bring thrill to your heart and tears to your eyes. There are other notable roles in the cast—but these players not been selected for their name for their ability to portray the role. For once you are going to see a production without a trace of artificiality. I am going to take back three quarters of a century more—and you will live with it, laugh with them, sorrow with them—and with Lincoln.

It is truly a picture of a lifetime, this mirror of the life of the Nation.

SPRING FESTIVAL

MUSIC STUDY CLUB

The sacred Cantata, "Resurrection,"
by R. N. Stubbs was given Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the Central Methodist church sponsored by the Music Study club, assisted by the singing talent of the Twin Cities.

The church auditorium was filled to capacity and the Sunday school rooms thrown open to accommodate those eager to hear this beautiful rendition. For the entertainment the chancel had been prettily decorated. Floor vases of white spiraea and white iris were used. The choir all glistened against the light with the deep green of Jackson vine with which it was covered. An elegant Baby Grand piano that was used to accompany the Cantata was placed on the pulpit platform.

Dr. James D. Hunter opened the program with a prayer. Dr. Patterson followed with a reading of the twentieth chapter of John, the chapter on which the story of the Cantata is based, his remarks modulating into "Alleluiah," the opening chorus of the story. Those taking part, wearing white cotters, had taken their places behind the choir rail during the reading of the chapter. Mrs. E. E.
Graves was the splendid accompanist.
Mrs. H. O. Troup, the club president, directing. As the rich harmonies poured from the throats of the singers, the immense throng settled into an intense quiet that was not broken until the last note of the glorious "Alleluiah" chorus had finished. This expression was heard as the throng passed out of the church "I do wish it had been an hour longer, it was the grandest music we have ever had in our cities."

All great religious revivals of modern times have been greatly influenced by music and the revival at the Central Methodist church of this twentieth century is no exception to the rule, wonderful messages are put over in music.

The whole influence of the Cantata suggests an approach to the infinite, adorable God. It has been the laudable ambition of the Music Study club for some years to present a sacred musical programme in a local church. The presentation of the sacred program, given Sunday afternoon, was the fruition of this ambition.

Those taking part were sopranos:
Madames J. M. Pettey, R. M. Mc-
Glathery, F. A. Morrow, Herman
Whaley, Morris Ford and D. D. Gibson and Miss Dorothy Patterson. Altos: Mesdames S. B. Burr, George Jackson

field, Wade Wright, Dr. W. A. Rickles
J. W. Howell and J. R. Nicholson.
Bassos: Messrs: Morris Ford, Gilliam, R. W. Cowart, T. G. Crane, S.
B. Burr and J. W. Boggess, a well balanced chorus.

"The First day of the week" soprano recitation was tenderly rendered by Mrs. R. M. McGlathery. The trio by Mr. Burr, Mrs. Pettey and Miss Banks was a sweetly solemn number telling of the finding of the empty sepulchre. The duet by Mrs.
Pettey and Miss Banks was beautiful and developed into a chorus. Mrs.
Pettey singing an obbligato, her well rounded tones blending beautifully and really making a fancy canopy for the choral work. This chorus modulating into another, "Jesus, our risen King," Mr. Ligon's sweet tenor ringing out in solo. The chorus of sopranos and altos, "Woman why weepest Thou," was inspiring.

During the intermission Miss Dorothy Patterson sang a solo, "O hear and Consider," by Harker, her enunciation never interfering with her well rounded tones.

Perhaps the outstanding number of the Cantata was Handel's "Allelu-jah" chorus from "Messiah," that was rendered in all its magnificent grandeur and dignity. Mrs. Troup introduced this number as a finale to the whole.

Musicians from the cities and surrounding towns crowded to the platform to congratulate Mrs. Troup on her splendid achievement.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a young man twenty years of age and I go with a young girl seventeen. She loves me and I love her. She wants to marry me. Do you think we're too young?
I had a date with her last Sunday, but she called me up and told me she could not fill the date as she was going away. I found out afterwards that she had a date with another young man.
Should I still continue going with her? BROWN EYES.

BROWN EYES: You are most decidedly too young to be thinking of marriage now.
You can see for yourself that your friend does not know her own mind.
from the way she treated you.
However, there is no reason why you should not continue to be friends. Don't say anything to her about your last date, but if it happens again it will be time enough to stop seeing her.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl of nineteen. I have been going steady with a man of twenty-eight for the past seven months. He says he loves me dearly, and I love him, too.
However, he has often said that he never would marry. Now I would love to marry him. I have had chances to go out with men who are "serious," but as I love this man only I have refused to go out with them.
Kindly advise me as to what I should do. WORRIED.

WORRIED: There is just one thing to do, dear, and that is to give up the idea of marrying this man. If he really loved you he would certainly want to marry you. That is the first test of love.
If you wish to continue being friends, all well and good. But you are very foolish not to go out with other men at the same time.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
Should a girl invite a man
into the house each time when returning from church or elsewhere?
2. Should she invite him to call again when leaving, or should he ask to call?
3. Should a lady take her es-cort's arm when walking home, or vice versa? WEARY WILLIE.

WEARY WILLIE: It is not at all necessary to invite a man into the house every time he escorts you home. If the hour is still early and you want to talk, it is perfectly all right.
2. It is usually the girl's place to ask the man to call again, but if she should forget to do so, he may ask.
3. A lady should only take her es-cort's arm when actually in need of assistance, when crossing the street or getting in or out of a crowd and so forth.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest and will reply to them in these columns.
Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

Copyright, 1925, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downword on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

Swift's Premium Ham may be a bit higher priced than some other brands. You will know the reason when you have tried them. It's in the taste. A rich flavor all its own. Only carefully selected lean hams, smoked with hickory wood to just the right degree, can bear Swift's Premium label. Try Premium Ham this week, while the dealers on this page are making a special feature of it. Serve it Easter Sunday.
